DESPERATE HORSE THIEVES

They Plunder Barns of Farmers Near Deerfield, Half Day, and Shermerville

DETECTIVES ASKED FOR HELP

Farmers Lose Many Valuable Horses, Some are Valued as High as $300, No Traces of Them to be Found

Wholesale raids of horse thieves along the Lake county border line, in strength, sweeping from village to village and looting barn after barn, daring capture and even death in maddening by what is evidently an organized gang of thieves, have aroused the southern and western part of Lake county as never before, and at the request of the marshal of villages from Highland Park to Barrington along the border Chicago detectives have been detailed on the case, as Cook county horse owners have also suffered, and desperate attempts are being made to capture the raiders.

The last raid was made between Monday and Tuesday morning and netted the thieves ten horses loss of which is thus far reported and possibly more.

The raid alone is the most spectacular in twenty-five years and has set the entire country agog, as nothing like it has been known since the days when the cry of horse thief was a familiar one, which it has not been for more than a quarter of a century.

No one has the slightest clue to the gang which operated between Monday night and day break Tuesday. There is not the slightest clue to them. The following, with the villages near which they are located, are however the names of looters and the value of their animals:

Shermanville—J. B. Connell, farmer mile east of village, lost two work horses, value about $600, Monday night or Tuesday morning.

John Beshiel, same village, lost one valuable horse, $300, same night.

Deerfield—William Huehn, farmer, two miles west of village, lost two work horses and one carriage horse valued at $1,000 all told, same night.

Half Day—Two farmers lost two animals, the other a single animal, same night.

To cap the climax, three months ago thieves presumably the same band, swooped down upon Shermanville and stole three other horses, making twelve to date which they have netted, rivalling in boldness the acts of Mosby's guerrillas of the south.

This time it was Peter Hupp of Shermerville who lost the horses. He lives two and a half miles from the village.

The last preceding thefts were a year ago, but are not believed to have anything to do with this latest bandit gang, which has everything beaten in Lake county for boldness and debonair disregard of discovery or shot gun vengeance.

It is believed by the marshalls at Deerfield and Shermerville that the thieves are strongly organized, have ample means of making a getaway, know how to handle horses, are old hands at the game, and have a way of escape marked out for them, all ready for any emergency, and they may even have an automobile or two at their command.

Naturally Filtered Water.

An English naturalist, who has explored the mountain ranges of the Malay peninsula, reports that in several species of bamboo the hollow internodes—the parts of the stems between the joints—are stored with large quantities of naturally filtered water. He also discovered two species of ferns, growing on trees whose thick, fleshy stems are filled with galleries tunneled by ants, the ferns thus forming living nests for the ants.

The Deepest Hole.

The deepest hole in the world up to date is the boring begun ten years ago at Coochibow, Illinois, with the object of attaining a depth of 2,550 metres, and which has now reached a depth of 2,240 metres (7,349 feet). The bore is 44 centimetres (17 inches) in diameter at the top and diminishes progressively to nine centimetres.

SALEM WINS VICTORY

The Town of Salem Wins Victory in Damage Suit Against it

The jubilant smile was quite common in the town of Salem last week Saturday. Everybody who had one or could borrow one, got it out, aired it, polished it up a little and then used it for decorative purposes.

For on Saturday it was announced that the town had won a big victory in its automobile suit which had been on trial before Judge Belden at Elkhorn. The victory was a sweeping one, the town being sided with by the jury in every contention on which decision was made. In his instruction to the jury Judge Belden explained that there were three points on which the jury should decide the facts. First, whether or not the road was reasonably safe for travel; second, whether or not Collier used proper care in driving the auto; third, whether the heirs of Gibson were entitled to damages.

All three points were decided in favor of the town.

Wallace Ingalls of Racine and Calvin Stewart of Kenosha were attorneys for the Gibson estate and R. V. Baker of Kenosha and Attorney Page of Elkhorn represented the town.

Witnesses for the prosecution were Collier, Mrs. Gardiner and a boy from Kenosha. Witnesses for the town included Nels Peterson, who, driving in a buggy, met the auto on the eventful night, also John Gaggin, W. J. VanDeuser, John Mütz and others. Walker Curtiss was a power for the defense. Living in the vicinity of the accident, he was acquainted with the actors in the drama and with characteristic energy he set about the assembling of witnesses to bring out the facts. The town owes him a vote of thanks.

It was found impossible however to get witnesses out of Antioch. There whose testimony would have proved most illuminating if it could have been obtained. As it was however the admission of high balls consumed were quite numerous.

Both Ingalls and Stewart put up strong pleas to the jury in the final summoning up, and when it comes to persuasive talking they are there with the goods. But in this instance the task was too big. They bit off more than they could chew.

It was promptly announced that they would move for a new trial and that they would appeal the case but it hardly seems likely that any kind of legal gymnastics can regitalize life into this particular suit.

The Gibson case and its twin brother the Collier case have now held the boards in this county for about two years and have been the cause of a great amount of illfeeling on the part of the country people to city travelers in automobiles. Country people believe they have been persecuted. People in the town of Salem especially have burned beneath the stigma which it has been attempted to fasten to their roads. Whereas the truth is that the town shares with Randall and Wheatland the claim to the best roads in the county the inference has been spread broadcast that their roads were in a shocking condition. The general tendency is to lay the blame for the matter on the shoulders of the attorneys who have conducted the prosecution—Wilmot Agitator.

FOX LAKE BRIDGE WAS MOVED WITH SUCCESS

Sweet & Merrell, moving contractors, successfully completed the job of moving a big steel bridge near Fox Lake recently after the work had been turned down by four other contracting firms. The bridge in question was a fifty-foot steel structure located just north of Ingleside over what is known as Squaw Creek, along the course of which a canal was being dug to connect Long Lake and Fox Lake. The bridge blocked the progress of the canal contractors, who were unable to get their big dredge past the structure and it was found necessary to move the bridge.

Four different moving contractors were asked to figure on the work and after looking over the ground three of the number refused to tackle the job. The fourth submitted figures on the work but declared he did not care to undertake the contract. Sweet & Merrell were then consulted and they took the job. The bridge was moved from its foundation one day and the following day, after the dredge had passed through, it was moved back in place, little trouble being experienced in doing the work. Sweet & Merrell have reason to feel proud of their achievement, in view of the fact that four other moving contractors were afraid to tackle the job.

OPERATOR COMMITTED SUICIDE

Relatives of the Young Man Assert That Accounts Are in Good Condition.

CAUSE OF SUICIDE UNKNOWN

Was a Man of Good Nature and Known Well Throughout That Section of the County

Despondent over the fact that he was afflicted with a chronic ailment, for which he believed there was no relief, George McNamara, 33 years of age, telegraph operator for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Russell, Ill., shot himself in the head, dying instantly.

McNamara had been the agent for the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul at Russell for several years, and was well known throughout that section of the county.

Worry over his ailment, it is said, brought on an acute attack, and Dr. H. B. Young of Gurnee was called to the house Monday. Thinking a change of environment would take his mind off his cares, Dr. Young took McNamara home with him keeping him until Tuesday morning.

Tuesday morning the doctor was called to attend a patient north of Wadsworth and took McNamara with him. The physician left McNamara in charge of the buggy and went into the house. A few minutes later he heard a shot and running out discovered the limp form of the young man, slid down from the seat of the buggy and in a heap.

He was taken to the Young home at Gurnee, where an inquest was held.

Relatives of the young man at Russell stated that there was no known cause for the act. McNamara owned property in Russell worth about $8,000 and it was stated that his accounts with the railroad were in first class shape.

The unfortunate young man was a brother-in-law of R. B. Godfrey of this place.

NEW COMPANY HAS BEEN GIVEN NAME

The new company which is to take over the electric light, power and gas companies around Chicago will be known as the Public Service Company of Illinois. The corporation has already been formed and the charter granted at Springfield. The nominal capitalization is $1,000, but will be increased when the properties are taken over.

The merger, which is being put through by Samuel Insull and his associates, will include the North Shore Electric, the Economy Light and Power, the Illinois Valley Gas and Electric and the Kankakee Gas and Electric companies. Other concerns may also be taken into the combination later, as the company's corporate rights under its charter will be broad enough to provide for great growth of public service companies in the future.

Practically all of the stocks of the companies named have been deposited with the Illinois Trust and Savings bank under the terms of the call sent out several weeks ago, and it is expected that the first steps in the organization will be taken within a week.

FORMER ANTIOCHERS ARE MARRIED AT LAWTON, OKLA.

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Miss Lulu Mack and Robert M. Herman, which took place at Lawton, Oklahoma, on Tuesday, October third.

Both young people were former residents of this village and both are well known to our readers in this vicinity. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Nettie Mack, formerly of Antioch but now of Minneapolis, Minn., and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Herman, who were also former residents of this place, but for the past few years have made their home at Lawton, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman will make their future home at Lawton. The News joins with their Antioch friends in extending to them most hearty congratulations.

FIVE MILE ZONE IS TO BE URGED

R. P. Hobson says When Congress Opens he Will Push the Dead Line Bill

NO SALOONS FOR FIVE MILES

There Will be no Saloons Within Five Miles of Any Naval or Military Reservations, if the Bill is Passed

The expected has happened.

The Waukegan movement for a five mile dry zone about naval and military reservations in this state has broadened into a national one that will be fought out in the halls of the national congress.

It is not going to make any difference whether the Illinois legislature rejects a chance to pass a five mile limits bill or not, as Congress will surely have offered to it such a bill.

Rev. McGinnis received a letter from Congressman Hobson, the man who sunk the Merrimac in Santiago harbor, stating that he intended when Congress opened, to introduce and push for action a bill establishing a five mile dead line for saloons about naval stations.

This means that there is to be a two edge fight for passage of the bill, one in the Illinois legislature, another in Congress, and that it is probable before the matter is through with, that every liquor interest and every dry interest in the country will be lined up against and for the bills in the respective bodies, the fight beginning in Illinois and stretching from here to Washington.

In regard to the legislative fight, the Lake County Sunday School Association heard the following two resolutions, one favoring the five mile limit, the other commending State's Attorney R. J. Dady for his good work against the Sunday saloons of Waukegan.

"Whereas, the saloons of Waukegan and North Chicago are a menace to the morals and efficiency of the men in training for the defense of our country at Fort Sheridan and the Naval Training School at North Chicago, and

"Whereas, a movement has been inaugurated to request the government to establish a five mile dry zone about said posts,

"Resolved, that we, the delegates to the Lake County Sunday School convention assembled at Libertyville give to the movement our unqualified sanction and support.

"Whereas, the saloons of Lake county has defied the laws of God and man regarding the Sabbath and,

"Whereas Ralph J. Dady, state's attorney of said county is making laudable efforts to compel them to conform to the law.

Resolved; that we the Lake County Sunday School Association, convened at Libertyville, endorse his action and give to him our hearty support.

The machinery of the five miles dry zone movement will be as follows: Every church and Sunday school in the county including many Catholic congregations, is organized into a league to get to the five mile dry zone petitions.

The petitions are being extensively signed every day in the county and along the north shore.

The powerful aid of Father E. W. Gavin, Church of the Immaculate Conception, Waukegan, has been wholeheartedly enlisted.

The petitions, signed and attested, will be presented to President Howard Taft, Oct. 23, when he opens the naval school.

The president will refer them to Secretary of War John S. Stimson.

Stimson will refer them to the Illinois legislature.

The Illinois legislature is not looked upon very hopefully as to the passage of the bill but may give a three mile limit, instead of a mile and an eighth.

Didn't Go Crazy Over It.

The inhabitants of Lone St. Kilda heard the gramophone the other day for the first time. A steamer belonging to Messrs. McCallum of Glasgow touched at the island, and it was one of the passengers, Mr. Louis Barbo, who had the distinction of taking the first gramophone to the island. The stolid St. Kildan, however, failed to display the wide-mouthed wonder which was expected of him.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND

Lake Michigan Gives up Body of Miss Elsie Baldwin Who Disappeared Thursday

The body of the woman found floating in Lake Michigan near the city park at Lake Forest Saturday has been positively identified as that of Miss Elsie Baldwin, aged 35, a former Chicago school teacher, who lived at 3940 Park avenue.

F. W. Baldwin 4105 West Madison street, Chicago, went to Lake Forest and after viewing the body, claimed it as that of his daughter.

Mr. Baldwin said that his daughter up until last June had been a teacher at the Farragut high school, but that then she was relieved from duty because of mental trouble and given a six months' furlough.

Her trouble he said was a sort of nervous breakdown. She was subject to fits of despondency, and once before, in April of this year, attempted to commit suicide by swallowing carbolic acid.

Mr. Baldwin said that his daughter lived with Mrs. Olson at 1815 Humboldt avenue, but inquiry there disclosed the fact that she had not been there for at least a month. Later it was found that she had roomed at the Park avenue address for about that length of time and disappeared on last Thursday.

Coroner Taylor of Libertyville presided at the inquest and it took but a short consultation of the jurymen to return a verdict of death by drowning, with suicidal intent. The authorities and the girl's father scouted the story that the fit of despondency in which the act was committed was a result of disappointment in a love affair.

"Elsie was never a sentimental girl," said Mr. Baldwin, "and I doubt if she ever gave a man a second thought. She was wrapped up in her educational work, and I think it was her dismissal by the board of education, after a term of two years' successful service, that led her to commit the deed. Her ill health was always a cross for her to bear, and coupled with the dismissal, caused the tragedy."

RELATIVES MUST PAY MAINTENANCE

A new order regarding the payment of the price of maintenance of inmates in state hospitals by blood relatives where they are financially able, is being put in force by President Sherman and the members of the state board of administration. During the last week the board has been busily engaged notifying relatives of the inmates of the provisions of the new state law.

The board has already become the victim of criticism on account of the new law. Relatives of the inmates are of the opinion that the new law is merely a ruling of the board. This is not true, as the board is merely following out its line of duty as defined by an act passed by the last legislature.

For years it has been necessary for blood relatives to pay the railroad fare of the inmates to the institution, and also for his or her clothing. All other expenses were borne by the state, but the new law provides that all expenses except medical attention, be paid by blood relatives, where they are able.

The average cost of maintenance of an inmate in one of the state hospitals is about $150 or $160 per year.

GURNEE RESIDENT PASSES AWAY AT HIS HOME

Henry Sheppard, who resided on a farm in Warren township just north of Lamb's Corners, died Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, following a rather lingering illness of creeping paralysis. His death while a great blow to his relatives and friends, did not come as a surprise as it was known for some time that it was merely a matter of hours.

Mr. Sheppard had lived in Warren township, Lake county the greater part of his life. He was recognized as one of the most prominent and wealthiest men in the county. He resided on and worked one of the finest farms in this part of the state. His pleasing personality won him many friends.

About a week ago he was stricken with creeping paralysis. At first it did not bother him much, but the disease spread slowly but surely, always reaching upward. After a time he lost the use of his lower limbs, then his body and arms. A short time ago he lost the use of his vocal chords and could convey no thoughts to his relatives. Physicians announced that he could live but a few days.

Mr. Sheppard leaves besides his wife, a daughter, Lola.

Castles in Spain. A good many castles in Spain seem to be in danger these days.

FACTORY HEAD IS ARRESTED

Books Betray W. C. Holt During Scarlet Fever Quarantine

IS PRISONER IN COUNTY JAIL

Holt is Head of the Holt Brother's Firm Which Manufacture Wool Dusters at Libertyville, Illinois

Betrayed by his books and records during a scarlet fever quarantine, during which he was confined to his home, W. C. Holt, Libertyville, manufacturer, head of Holt Brothers, manufacturers of wool dusters, is a prisoner in the Lake county jail, facing hearing at Libertyville, on charges of obtaining money on false pretenses, and for the second or third time in his life, it is alleged, is facing prison bars after what is claimed to be an unparalleled example of man's ingratitude to man.

The charge on which Holt is held is that he swindled his benefactor.

The specific offenses charged are that he forged invoices of goods sold so that Fred Enderlin, a Libertyville saloon keeper, advanced money on them to keep the Holt plan running and that he also, when bills for goods were paid by creditors, neglected to turn the money over to Enderlin, to whom it was due on advances.

The amount of his alleged defalcations is not known, but may reach between $4000 and $5000 as Holt is understood to admit that he has uncoined his benefactor, Enderlin, ever since the latter came to his aid in a hard pinch and rescued him from certain financial disaster.

What is back of Holt's actions in this case or in one or two other alleged instances of the same kind cannot be learned. Not a hard drinker, a good fellow apparently, a mighty smooth talker, an expert in his business, his plant doing well and the head of a fine family of three children, for whom his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hubbard, kept house, his wife being dead, Holt's case is a genuine puzzle.

Holt's principal capital is the fact that he is an expert at the business of making wool dusters. Very few in the country understand as he does how to tan wool for the making of the dusters.

Holt first came from Chicago to North Chicago, where he started a factory.

It is alleged that he worked a Waukegan man, just as he did Enderlin, some years ago, but the Waukegan man, who is very wealthy, has never squealed, and there may be nothing to this particular phase but a tissue of gossip as the Waukegan man has never talked and probably never will, having a reputation for standing his losses without a whimper.

Holt was formerly the president and manager of the Holt Manufacturing company at Libertyville, now owned and operated by Frank Sullivan of Chicago.

It was charged two or three years ago by Sullivan that Holt manipulated the books and juggled the records, thus doing him out of about $2,000.

It was after Holt was ousted from this company that he organized the Holt Brothers' company. There is no brother connected with the company, it is said, this being a bluff of Holt's.

Enderlin had all the confidence in the world in Holt, who was his good friend and kept him going from the time the new plant which appeared to prosper, was started.

Then suddenly Libertyville just in fair time a few weeks ago had another short but strenuous epidemic of scarlet fever, and Holt contracted the disease, as did members of his household, and was confined to his home in quarantine by the Libertyville health authorities.

Enderlin took advantage of this fact to look over the books of the company of which he was voluntary backer, and his hair stood on end as he discovered, he alleges, as does his attorney, that Holt, it is claimed, had deliberately forged invoices on which Enderlin had advanced the money, and had also kept money already advanced but which Enderlin did not know had been paid in.

Holt, confronted with the books and the alleged conditions, is said to have thrown up his hands and admitted that Enderlin's discoveries are true. The arrest followed.

DRINKS THAT ARE UNUSUAL

"Acorn Cup" Is Liked by Tanners—Peculiar Tipples of the Ironstone Workers.

Some men boast of knowing the taste of every drink except water. They do not. One tippie they have never sampled is "acorn cup," or "the liquor," the stuff in which hides are tanned into leather.

Made from oak bark and acorns and acorn cups, it has a sharp, bitter taste that is anything but agreeable to the ordinary palate; but the men engaged in some tanneries habitually drink it in small quantities—a wineglassful at a time is the limit—as a pick me up.

Another drink unknown to the general typper is a favorite among ironstone workers. It is a natural product of a very curious kind. In the best sort of such stone are found hollow pieces, inside of which is about a pint of mush, a cold liquor with a sweet, sharp taste, and either red or white in color. Strangers seldom want more than one sip of mush, but the workers quaff it with avidity.

There are, too, many kinds of alcoholic products which are rarely if ever tasted outside particular trades. Methylated spirit is drunk not only by furniture polishers but by hat makers and others who use it in their work, and it seems impossible to make it so vile that they cannot swallow it.

A man engaged in one of the shops of a London warehouse was found to be drinking considerable quantities of methylated spirit, whereupon the remainder of the stock was dosed with that noisome drug asafetida, which it was thought, would make the stuff undrinkable. But the spirit actually disappeared faster than ever!

In the same way some of the alcohol used in scent works is drunk by those who have the handling of it, and some men engaged at drug warehouses get into the dangerous habit of taking "nips" of essences and the like. Not long ago a man employed by a large firm of wholesale chemists was seriously ill through long indulgence in the practice.—Tit-Bits.

Record for Chewing.

It might be well for those who adopt the one meal a day system to become chewers at the same time. A chewer, according to a dietetic expert, is one who chews all things so long as they have any taste in them. Gladstone, it is recorded, used to take 32 bites to every mouthful of food. This would be considered dangerously rapid eating by the modern school of chewers. "I have tried chewing conscientiously," writes Mr. Eustace Miles. "A banana has cost 800 bites, a small mouthful of bread and cheese 240 bites, a greedy mouthful of biscuit (while I was working on a Yorkshire moor) more than 1,000 bites. It still seemed to taste about as much as at first; but I knew that taste by then, so I swallowed."—London Chronicle.

The County Fair.

A thousand boyhood memories cluster round the county fair—the glorious autumnal weather, the joy of harvest, the strife for excellence, the greetings of friends. But it is the simplicity of the fun that is most worthy of remark. In these days of the costly show and spectacle, with theaters that are palaces and opera houses maintained by fabulous outlay, the inexpensive joys of the county fairs of the fathers are suggestive. There is nothing extravagant in the old fair. Yet for a royal good time and an amusement that was all-compassing and genuine it never had a rival.—New York Mail.

The Girl Who Helps Mother.

Why not give us a few moving pictures of the girl who helps mother? They are worth more than the Nan Pattersons, the Evelyn Thaws and the Beulah Blinford, who appeal to nothing but morbid curiosity and a taste for tragedy and depravity. Why don't the film makers pay big prices to the real heroine to pose for human interest shows?—Washington Star.

Hard Hit.

"Did the recent drought hurt you farmers much?" "I should say it did," answered Mr. Cornstossel. "We used to make a heap o' money haulin' out automobiles that got stalled. While that drought was on we couldn't afford to haul water to keep up some of our best mud holes."—Washington Star.

A Sedative.

"It's terrible to see the eccentricities of stock quotations," said the financier. "Yes," replied the statesman "It's a pity we can't hold things to a steadier course by feeding some governmental red tape into the stock ticker."

A Frank Preference.

"Doesn't your wife want the privilege of going to the polls and casting a ballot, as an enlightened and responsible citizen?" "Yes," replied Mr. Growcher, "but she'd rather have a new hat."

Heard in Advance.

"Fathers of small boys report that their sons are much easier to manage now than they were a month ago." "I'll bet I know why." "You've seen the billboards?" "Yes. A circus is coming to town."

SEVEN DIE, 24 HURT

FREIGHT CRASHES INTO MISSOURI PACIFIC PASSENGER TRAIN NEAR FORT CROOK.

TWENTY-FOUR ARE INJURED

Surgeons at Army Post Render First Aid to Victims—Gov. Gilchrist of Florida Assists in the Work of Rescue.

Omaha, Neb.—As a result of a head-on collision between a north-bound passenger train and a fast freight on the Missouri Pacific railroad near Fort Crook, seven persons are dead and twenty-four are suffering from injuries more or less serious.

The injured were rushed to the post hospital and the surgeons from the fort were the first on the scene to give attention to those hurt.

The scene of the accident was within less than one mile of the post. The passenger was belated and was endeavoring to make up time. At this point the Missouri Pacific and Burlington are parallel and within 100 feet of each other. Each engineer thought the other train was on the Burlington track, a slight curve preventing a realization of the impending collision until the locomotives were within 100 yards of each other. The smoker completely telescoped the chair car, most of the dead and injured being in the latter car.

The dead: F. W. Petring, Nebraska City, Neb. O. W. Keeler, Atchison, Kan. Mrs. Fred Rottman and daughter Marcella, Nebraska City.

A. W. Sprague, St. Joseph. Miss Frances Lillian Kanka, actress, Seattle.

Unknown negro woman, forty years old.

The seriously injured are: Fred Rottman, banker, Nebraska City; head, back and legs injured.

W. G. Richards, Maynard, Neb.; internal injuries, leg broken.

John Scott, Omaha, engineer; internal injuries, head cut.

Governor Gilchrist of Florida was in the Pullman, but was uninjured. The governor rendered assistance to the injured before the arrival of the surgeons from Fort Crook.

JUSTICE J. M. HARLAN DEAD

Oldest Member of United States Supreme Court Succumbs to Attack of Acute Bronchitis.

Washington.—Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme court of the United States died at his home here of acute bronchitis. He was seventy-eight years old.

Justice Harlan was the oldest member of the Supreme court, for years was conspicuous in Kentucky politics, once was candidate for the Republican nomination for vice-president of the United States, was a foremost constitutional authority and was prominent in the councils of the Presbyterian church.

Justice Harlan had been ill with acute bronchitis less than a week.

Mr. Harlan was commissioned an associate justice of the United States Supreme court November 29, 1877, taking his seat as a member of that body December 10 of the same year.

JOHN R. WALSH IS PAROLED

Former Banker Leaves Leavenworth Prison for Chicago Home After Serving More Than Year.

Leavenworth, Kan.—An order from Washington paroling John R. Walsh, the former Chicago banker and railway president, was received at the Federal prison here. The prisoner at once began preparations for the start home.

Mr. Walsh up to the time of his parole had served one year eight months and twenty-six days of his five-year sentence.

The order of parole arrived from Washington. When told that he was to be released the aged prisoner plainly showed his pleasure.

The aged banker's son met his father as he emerged from the prison gates and accompanied him home.

TAFT'S SPADE STARTS FAIR

President Takes Leading Part in Celebration Marking Opening of Panama-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco.—Actual work on the Panama-Pacific international exposition, to be held in 1915, was begun when President Taft turned the first spadeful of earth at the fair site. The ships of the Pacific fleet, riding at anchor in the harbor, joined in the celebration and the line of march of the spectacular military parade was thronged by thousands.

The ground breaking took place at the stadium in Golden Gate park, which occupies a part of the site of the fair.

Town Marshal Is Slain.

Hardin, Ill.—Elmer Carter, aged twenty-two years, was brought here from Kampsville, ten miles north of Hardin, and placed in the county jail charged with having fatally stabbed Charles A. Rose, Kampsville's town marshal. Rose died soon after he was stabbed.

Rhels, France.—Aviator Level, whose skull and spine were fractured when he fell with his machine while making a flight, is dead.

TUB TRUST SMASHED

UNITED STATES TO PUSH CRIMINAL SUIT.

Government Wins Case at Baltimore and Alleged Illegal Combination Must Dissolve.

Baltimore, Md.—The "bathtub trust" is ordered dissolved.

The government won its suit against the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company and others, and a decree handed down by Judge John C. Rose in the federal circuit court held the concern to be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act and a combination "unreasonably" restraining trade.

The decision is sweeping. Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the United States attorney, and United States District Attorney John Philip Hill of Baltimore, who conducted the case for the government, stated that the decision supports the government's contention on every point.

ELECTRIC LAMP TRUST HIT

Decision at Toledo Holds Concern Unlawfully Restrains Trade—Price Agreements Declared Unfair.

Toledo, O.—The dissolution of the "electrical trust," as the General Electric company and its subsidiaries are known, was ordered here by Judge Kellits in a decree in the United States court.

The decision in favor of the government in the suit brought last summer under the Sherman law orders the General Electric company to conduct business under its own name only and orders the dissolution of the National Electric Lamp company and other subsidiaries. The General Electric has about 40 subordinate firms under its control.

The contention of the government was that the General Electric company and its subsidiary corporations had entered into an unlawful combination in restraint of trade.

NO RECORD OF FUND KEPT

Attorney Tells Senators as Much as $1,800 Changed Hands and No Account Was Kept.

Milwaukee.—Money was distributed so liberally by Senator Isaac Stephenson during his campaign for nomination at the primaries in 1908 that sums as great as $1,800 were paid out without any accounting ever being given or asked.

George H. Gordon, United States attorney for the western district of Wisconsin, so testified before the senatorial investigation committee. Before he held any public office, but while counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at La Crosse, Gordon said he was paid $1,800 out of the $107,793 Stephenson campaign fund to be used in the senator's interest.

D. E. Riordan of Ashland, Wis., testified that he spent $3,200 of the Stephenson fund.

WILEY GETS QUEER QUERY

Florida Association Asks "Is It Legal to Offer Officials Money Under Name of Reward?"

Washington.—"Is it legal and do you approve offering public officials money under the name of a reward? Please answer."

This was the unusual ending of a telegram received by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's chief chemist, from the Florida Citrus and Vegetable Shippers' Protective association in relation to the unripe orange controversy that has come before the department.

Dr. Wiley took under advisement this question of public morals until he finds out, as he says, "what they are driving at."

NATHAN ALLEN IS SUED

Mrs. Jenkins Seeks to Recover $200,000—Action Is Also Brought by Government.

New York.—Papers were served on Nathan Allen, founder of the leather trust, in a suit for more than $200,000 brought by Mrs. Helen Dwellie Jenkins, with whom Allen toured Europe in 1909 and upon whom he showered a fortune in jewels.

Only last week Allen pleaded guilty to indictments for smuggling and was fined $12,000 by Judge Kough.

Owen Wister Denies Illness.

Rigby, Idaho.—Owen Wister, the author, left his ranch in Jackson's Hole, Wyo., for a hunting trip. Before leaving he said that rumors of his ill health were unfounded and that he expected to leave for New York October 15.

Italy Launches Fourth Dreadnought. Genoa.—Italy launched another dreadnought, the fourth within a short space of time. The new fighting machine is the Giulio Cesare.

Scared by Steer; Dies.

Cleveland, O.—Frightened by the onslaught of a wild steer charging him, Emil Ziegler, sixty years old, living at 5216 Blanche avenue, dropped dead in the street here. The steer was one of a shipment being unloaded at an abattoir.

Debt Is Paid After Seventy Years.

Morrice, Mich.—August Wilcox, the oldest resident of Shiawassee county, who for nearly seventy years has been trying to collect $5.04 from Uncle Sam, has at last succeeded.

BUT, FOUR MAY SETTLE IT!

TREASON IN PEKING

REBELLION SPREADS OVER ALL CHINA—REPUBLIC REPORT—ED PROCLAIMED.

FOREIGN MARINES LANDED

Terror Reigns and Fires Rage in Hankow—Rebels Fail to Maintain Order—Prisoners Set Free Pillage and Loot—Scores Killed.

Peking.—The rebellion is spreading rapidly. A well-defined rumor says that a republic has been declared at Wu-Chang and that the rebel leader at Hankow has notified the foreign consuls that a new government has been established.

Peking, 1,000 miles away from the rebel stronghold, in the center of the province is threatened with the fate of Hankow, a large part of which has been destroyed by fire and where hundreds of Manchus have been killed.

The government decided to concentrate its efforts to save Peking and unprecedented military activity within the walls of the great city is the result. Thirty thousand troops, who were to have departed for the military maneuvers at Kaitong, are on the move in the streets and several other divisions of the army are entraining for the suburbs.

That Peking can be saved is deemed impossible. The garrison is known to be partially disloyal and it is feared the first uprising will be the signal for a wholesale desertion, which can mean nothing less than the destruction of the city.

I-Chang and Yo-Chow have been taken and hundreds of their Manchu residents slain. A dispatch reports a battle at Chungking and predicts the early fall of that city.

The troops at the great military posts at Paotingfu and Tientsin, a few miles outside of this city, are reported to be ready to join the insurrectionists. It is reported that Chansha, the capital of Hunan, has been captured and that the yamens of the viceroys and the Tartar general have been burned.

Wild disorder prevails at Hankow. The revolutionists are making every effort to restore order in the city. Great numbers of criminals who were liberated from the prisons and the Hooligan element are pillaging and foraging what few buildings remain standing.

The foreigners have not been molested as yet. A division of allied foreign marines have landed to protect the foreign concessions. They are commanded by the Japanese admiral, Kewashima. The women and children were taken aboard the warships, of which there are two Americans, two Japanese, three British and one German. Standing a short distance from these ships is a Chinese squadron of six battleships. Several other foreign vessels are en route.

Funk Sued for Alienation.

Chicago.—Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, has been sued for $25,000 damages by John Henning, who charges that Mr. Funk alienated the affections of Mrs. Henning.

Auto Accident Kills One.

Tuscola, Ill.—Willis Winn was killed and Mr. and Mrs. George Winn and a small son injured when their automobile skidded and turned a double somersault in the road while going at forty miles an hour.

PEACE OFFER MADE

TURKEY MAY ACCEPT ITALY'S PROPOSAL TO ANNEX TRIPOLI.

Constantinople Paper Says 1,600 of Invading Army Are Slain—Correspondents Barred.

Constantinople.—Italy has made propositions that are expected to bring peace. It proposes to annex Tripoli and pay indemnity. Italy is to control all civil and military affairs, while the caliph is to be supreme in all religious affairs.

The Sabah publishes a dispatch stating that a large Italian force attacked a detachment of Turks entrenched in the hills outside of Tripoli and were repulsed after a long and severe battle. The Italian casualties are given as 1,600 killed and wounded.

Notice has been given to all Italian newspaper men in Turkey that they will be expelled in 24 hours.

Rome, Italy.—Four aeroplanes have arrived here from France. They will be sent to Tripoli, where it is proposed to make the first experiments in the use of flying machines in actual warfare. They will be piloted by Italian officers, who will undertake to drop bombs into the enemy's encampments.

WOMEN ARE GIVEN BALLOT

Late Returns in California Turn Defeat into Victory for Suffragist Amendment.

San Francisco, Cal.—Woman suffrage has triumphed in California. Straggling returns have wiped out the majority previously recorded against the amendment, and since this turn the margin in favor of the amendment has increased steadily. Totals show the result to be as follows: For suffrage amendment, 119,820; against, 117,779; majority for amendment, 2,041.

These figures represent the returns from 2,877 precincts out of 3,121 of the state. As virtually all of the remaining precincts are in counties which have given suffrage majorities, it is reasonable to suppose they will increase this margin.

ROYAL DUKE IN CANADA

Connaught Is Sworn In as New Governor of British Dominion with Imposing Ceremony.

Quebec.—The duke of Connaught, the new governor general of Canada, arrived in the harbor last night aboard the steamer Empress of Ireland. There was a crowd at the dock, but his royal highness and the duchess remained in their suite and only a few officials and friends gained the privilege of welcoming them to Canada.

The official landing of the duke and duchess took place this morning and the ceremony of swearing in the duke followed shortly afterwards in parliament.

Noted Spanish Bandit Taken.

Paris.—The Spanish brigand, Morera, of whom many tales of ferocity and daring are told in lonely mountain districts of northern Portugal and in the Galician province of Spain, has been captured by Portuguese troops.

Explosion Kills an Aviator.

Berne, Switzerland.—The aviator, Hans Schmidt, was killed while making an exhibition flight. His machine fell 150 feet, the gasoline exploded and the aviator was incinerated.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

IN THE LIVE BOX.

Some Shakespeare Statistics. A Shakespearean enthusiast with a turn for statistics has discovered that the plays contain 106,007 lines and 814,780 words. "Hamlet" is the longest play, with 3,930 lines, and the "Comedy of Errors" the shortest, with 1,777 lines. Altogether the plays contain 1,227 characters, of which 157 are females. The longest part is that of Hamlet. The part with the longest word in it is that of Costard in "Love's Labor Lost," who tells Moth that he is "not so long by the head as honorificabilitudinitatibus."

A Fly Parade. First Fly—Howdy, old pal? What sort of a season have you had?

Second Fly—Much the same as usual. Didn't take any outing this year. I'm at my old quarters in the livery stable. First Fly—Pretty dull, I should say. I've been in clover. Ted's right. If there ever was a fly Eden, I found it. Listen. No screens, baldheaded owner, baldheaded baby, flypaper easy to eat and three fat women who couldn't swat an elephant. I'm going back there next summer.

FROM TEXAS

Some Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State. From a beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meads, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small, delicate woman, to nurse a bouncing, healthy baby 14 months."

"I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fond of it, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and suffering to myself."

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee."

"In fact, the entire family, from the latest arrival (a 2-year-old who always calls for his 'pottle' first thing in the morning), up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

HALLOWE'EN Day of Mirth and Mystery

EACH successive year sees an increasing observance of Halloween—a holiday which rivals any on the calendar as an occasion for pranks and pastimes. The growing disposition to devote more attention to the celebration of Halloween is not strange, for the occasion with its quaint customs has much to commend it as a break in the routine of the year. For one thing, this fateful day of mirth and mystery is the first of the autumn and winter holidays, and yet more significant, it is for the young folks the first break in the school year. Withal, its festivities are for the most part reserved for the period after nightfall, so that even the individuals who are occupied during the day may participate.

The festival of the night of October 31 is in its origin and traditions one of the most picturesque which now finds observance in this country. It has a number of different designations, among which are Hallowe'en, All Hallow Even, Nutcrack Night and Snap Apple Night. It derives its most common name, however, as the eve or vigil of All Saints' or All Hallows Day (November 1). From time out of mind this has been heralded as a night when witches, devils and other mischief-makers are abroad on their baneful midnight errands, while the fairies are supposed to hold on that night a grand anniversary.

To accept the spirit of the season the devotee of Halloween must concede that on no other night of the year do such supernatural influences prevail as after dark on the closing day of October. According to ancient beliefs the spirits of the dead then wander about and in some instances the spirits of living persons are supposed to have the temporary power to leave their bodies and join the ghostly throng. Especially gifted with the power to converse with airy visitants are persons who have had the good fortune to be born on October 31, but other folks, also, tradition hath it, may be warned or advised by the elves.

For all that such awesome doing are attributed to the mysterious spirits that are abroad on Halloween these supernatural beings cannot be altogether ill-natured, since they are willing without fee or reward, and on the condition of the performance of a very simple ceremony, to disclose to any curious young man or woman most interesting particulars optimist must go out alone and unperceived with a handful of hemp seed, which he sows, the while repeating "Hemp seed, I sow thee and her that is to be my true love come after me and pull thee." Whereat, upon looking over his left shoulder he ought to see a likeness of his future sweetheart pulling the freshly sowed seed. If the experimenter sees nothing he must perforce conclude that he is never to marry or else that he has not followed directions explicitly enough in his test.

There has been increasing appreciation during recent years on the part of hostesses of all ages that Halloween—a night of laughter and jollity and mystery—affords a most delightful opportunity for entertaining in a unique way. The quaint conceits in the amusement line which have already been improvised for this mystic occasion prove how inviting is this field for individual ingenuity. Halloween has become especially popular at the schools and colleges of the country. It is a brief season given over to the pranks of the students, and each student body tries to outdo the others and at the same time surpass the exploits of its predecessors. Particularly at the boarding schools for girls and at women's colleges is there a fantastic observance of Halloween.

The invitations to a Halloween party must above all else have the requisite of novelty. The wording may hint of dark secrets to be unfolded, and as symbols of the occasion there are representations of witches riding brooms, blinking owls, broad-winged bats, or pumpkins. For decorative purposes nature provides at this season of the year a wealth of vivid-hued material, such as cornstalks, pumpkins, practiced of all the Halloween recipes is that which admonishes the credulous maiden to eat an apple before a looking glass while combing her hair with the promise that if these directions be followed explicitly the face of her destined conjugal partner will be seen in the mirror as though peeping over her shoulder. Equally well known is the scheme whereby any maiden may find out the first letter of the name of her future husband by peeling an apple, taking the paring by one end in her fingers and after swinging it three times around her head allowing it to fall in whatever fashion it may. A little imagination may be necessary to construe the position of the paring as indicative of a desired letter, but usually this mental aid is readily supplied.

Another mode of peeping into the matrimonial lottery has been transplanted to America from Scotland. By this plan the young women go hand-in-hand, blindfolded, or at least with eyes closed, to the cabbage patch and each pulls the first plant met with. Earth on the root of the cabbage thus selected signifies dowry. The shape and size of the vegetable denote the appearance and size of the future spouse, while the taste of the heart and stem indicate his disposition. The Irish girls have a scheme for catching a glimpse of a future husband by throwing a ball of yarn out of the window, holding the end of the yarn and then rewinding it saying the Pater Noster backward. If the ball of yarn, outside in the darkness, be watched carefully the young woman may hope to be rewarded by seeing the desired apparition. In this same old-fashioned category is the legend which admonishes a girl to wet the sleeve of a shirt and hang it on a chair before the fire ere she retires on Halloween. Then if she remain awake until midnight she may see her future helpmate enter the room and turn the drying garment.

Entirely erroneous is the impression prevailing in some quarters that all matrimonial prognosticating, as carried on at Halloween, is for the benefit of the fair sex. As a matter of fact there are numerous forms of divination designed for the use of ardent swains. The best known of these is that wherein the smitten youth descends cellar stairs with a candle in one hand and a mirror in the other, hoping to find the face of a sweetheart reflected back to him. Especially adapted for practice by farmers is the hemp-seed ordeal. The youthful carrots, russet oak leaves and green pine boughs. Similarly the autumn products—apples, nuts, grapes, etc.—afford ample menu for refreshments for guests imbued with the spirit of the occasion.

A favorite means for lighting at Halloween parties is afforded by candles set in hollowed carrots and jack-o'-lanterns. The jack-o'-lanterns are fashioned, as most of our readers are aware, by removing the pulp from pumpkins and squashes; cutting openings to represent eyes, nose and mouth and fastening a lighted candle inside. If desired, the bizarre effect may be emphasized by adorning the visage of the pumpkin lantern with painted white or black eyebrows and mustaches. Sometimes a hostess ambitious to make her Halloween entertainment unique in every respect elects to hold it in a barn or attic, or even in a cellar. Black draperies and the symbol of the skull and cross-bones have likewise been used on occasion to add to the "creepy" atmosphere.

No Halloween party would be complete without certain time-honored pastimes on the program. Conspicuous among these is the perennially popular prank of ducking for apples. The apples are set afloat in a tub and each person essays to catch one of the floating prizes with the teeth. The hands must not be used at all in this attempt. It is said that the only sure way to capture an apple is to force it to the bottom of the tub and there hold it close while it is caught with the teeth. However, very few contestants employ this method and their antics in pursuing the elusive apples are often amusing in the extreme. Zest may be given to the apple ducking by providing a grab bag of prizes, which is open to the contestants in the order in which they capture apples.

An apples tied to a string and swinging in a doorway is another variation of this diversion, and yet another trick is to suspend a stick by a string tied in the middle. An apple is placed at one end of the stick and a lighted candle at the other, and the stick is then whirled around rapidly. The object, of course, is to catch the apple with the teeth and not inadvertently grasp the candle. When a cake is baked at home for a Halloween party it is customary to place a ring in the loaf just as in a wedding cake, and also a key. The ring, of course, signifies marriage, while the key signifies a journey for the finder.

Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys. How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tested and its results have been so revolutionary that a well-known firm in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country. Those who suffer from kidney trouble and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of advancing kidney disease which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rheumatism and bladder trouble are caused from nothing more nor less than kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder stones are caused by bad kidneys. Once they are made to work properly, these diseases should quickly disappear.

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills. We urge everyone who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fail to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and drop all other kidney treatments.

Senator Stevenson of Washington writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—25 and 50 cents. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. Then buy a package; you will not regret it. Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich.

To Farm Out Copper Lands.

A party of Houghton capitalists have under consideration the establishment at a point on the Copper Range railroad south of Houghton a 600-acre experimental farm. The lands have already been secured, but are at present heavily timbered.

Steps will be taken during the coming winter to cut the timber and early next spring the stumps will be removed and the land made ready for cultivation. It is hardly probable that crops will be planted before 1913, but the enterprise when established will prove one of the biggest from an agricultural standpoint in the copper country.—Michigan Manufacturer.

Famous Old Morocco City

Was in Its Day One of the World Capitals of Islam and Still Interesting to Europeans.

Morocco City, the capital of the southern half of the Moroccan kingdom, is a far more interesting city than Fez, says the New York Sun. Architecturally its monuments, including the famous Kutubia tower, the counterpart of the Giralda in Seville, the famous mosque of Muley Abdallah and a hundred other ruined or semi-ruined edifices surviving from the days when the city had 700,000 inhabitants and was one of the world capitals of Islam, are the most considerable and magnificent in Morocco. Equally beautiful is the site of this city in the upper valley of the Tensift river, surrounded in a half circle by the great wall of the grand Atlas mountains, whose snow-clad peaks are seen beyond a foreground of large farms and fertile fields. A city far less given over to war, with a population less ferocious, less fanatical than that of Fez or Mekinez, Morocco City has been much more frequently visited by Europeans than its northern rivals. Geographically, Morocco City is the real gateway to the Sahara. By the famous Glawi pass one road climbs over the Atlas to Taflet, and the caravan route continues to Timbuktu. A second road descends to the Draa crossing the Atlas chain, while a third leads to Tarudant and the Sus country. Close communication with the south has left its mark upon the people, who are larger and show more patently the infusion of African blood than the Berbers and Arabs of the north.

Care of Canaries.

In selecting a canary one of the cross-breeds, pure canary with a strain of goldfinch or bullfinch, is the best to choose, as they are much harder than the pure canary and have splendid voices. The best food for canaries is canary and rape seed, one part of rape to three of canary. From April to September they should have a little fresh green food every day, either chickweed, watercress or lettuce. A lump of sugar should always be kept between the cage wires within easy reach.

Always give a canary a bath the first thing in the morning. After cleaning the bottom of the cage should be sprinkled with gravel and sand (not sand from the sashore, as the salt will kill the bird).

Never hang the cage in a draft or a stiff breeze, as canaries are very susceptible to cold. Neither should it remain uncovered in a lighted room at night, as the bird's song is liable to become impaired.

TELEPHONE POLES OF CACTUS

Arizona Government is Planning to Make Good Use of the Giant Saguaro.

Saguaro for telephone and telegraph poles is the latest idea and one that is to be tried out. It sounds plausible and it is believed that it will be more economical than the old style of poles. Its test is to come from Tucson.

The government is to build a telephone system for the forestry service of the Coronado forest reserve. The first of these lines to be built out of Tucson is to be used into the Catalinas, and it is there that the saguaro experiment is to be tried.

Where they can be found in what approaches alignment, so that the line will not have a zig-zag too much, the saguaro up in the canons through which the line will pass are to be utilized for the purpose of attaching brackets to which the wires will be fastened. And so the secret is out.

Along the proposed line it is difficult to set poles, owing to the rocky nature of the country traversed. Not only is this the case, but it is difficult to get the poles up there in the hills to set, while the saguaros are right there in many instances, and while not at a uniform distance this is no considered important.

Time is Long.
Time is infinitely long and each day is a vessel into which a great deal may be poured—if one will actually fill it up.—Goethe.

"A Perfect Saw."

"To say nothing and saw wood," seems to me one of the most sagacious phrases passed down by our hard working forebears. Like most sayings which have emanated from manual labor, this is blunt, homely, and, to the loquaciously inclined, painfully accurate. Show me a man bent jack-knife-fashion over a saw-norse, with a short log under his back, and I will point out a man who is minding his own business with admirable zeal. If he must speak, he ceases to saw. While he saws he is necessarily mute. Hence this shrewd phrase, which is, punning aside, a perfect saw.—Atlantic.

Dear little hands, I miss them so!

All through the day wherever I go—

All through the night how lonely it seems,

For no little hands wake me out of my dreams.

I miss them all through the weary hours

I miss them as others do sunshine and flowers,

Day-time or night-time wherever I go,

Dear little hands I miss them so.

How to Be Immortal.

Only one-cell animals which have no differentiation are immortal and never grow old. Physical immortality, deathless youth is possible, but you must be an infusorian or a yeast plant to attain it, and one wouldn't even be a clam or a jellyfish for the price. The process has no limits any more than it has beginnings. Life is just that, one-third dying that two-thirds may live, whether it be the single cell or the body.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Hampton's.

YOUNG BEAVER'S DAY'S WORK

Record Made by One of the Animals in Regent's Park Gardens, London.

A young beaver in Regent's Park gardens, London, was once placed at work upon a tree 12 feet long and 2 feet 6 inches thick just as the town clocks sounded the hour of noon. The beaver began by barking the tree a foot above the ground.

That done he attacked the wood. He worked hard, alternating his labor with dips in his bathing pond. He bathed and labored alternately until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he ate his supper of bread and carrots and paddled about in his pond until half-past 5 o'clock.

Ten minutes later, when only one inch of the tree's diameter remained intact, he bore upon his work and the tree fell. Before it fell the beaver ran as men run when they have fired a blast. Then as the tree lay on the ground he portioned it out mentally and again began to gnaw.

He worked at intervals all night, cut the log into three parts, rolled two of the portions into the water and reserved the other third for his permanent shelter. The work done, he took a bath.—Harper's Weekly.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border plainsman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and at full gallop pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the victims' belongings and finds a pocket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City, charged with the murder, his accuser being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the peril of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a negro, who tells him he is Ned and that he knew the Keith family back in Virginia. Ned says one of the murdered men was John Sibley, the other Gen. Willis Walte, formerly an officer in the Confederate army. The plainsman and Ned escape from the cell, and later the two fugitives become lost in the sand desert. They come upon a cabin and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a singer he saw at Carson City. The girl explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Hawley induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. There is a terrific battle in the darkened room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Hawley is appropriated, and the girl who says that her name is Hope joins in the escape. Keith explains his situation and the fugitives make for Fort Larned.

CHAPTER XIII.—(Continued.)

It was noon, the sun pitiless and hot above them, before they straggled within the partial shelter of the sand dunes, and sank wearily down to their meager lunch. Their supply of water was limited, and the exhausted ponies must wait until they reached the river to quench their thirst. Yet this was very far off now, and Keith had seen enough of their surroundings to locate the position of the ford. Slow as they must proceed, three hours more would surely bring them to the bank of the stream. They discussed their plans briefly as the three sat together on the warm sand, revived both by the food and the brief rest. There was not a great deal to be determined, only where the girl should be left, and how the two men had better proceed to escape observation.

Fort Larned was the nearest and safest place for their charge, none of the party expressing any desire to adventure themselves within the immediate neighborhood of Carson City. What her future plans might be were not revealed, and Keith forebore any direct questioning. His duty plainly ended with placing her in a safe environment, and he felt convinced that Mrs. Murphy, of the Occidental Hotel, would furnish room, and, if necessary, companionship. The sole problem remaining—after she had rather listlessly agreed to such an arrangement—was to so plan the details as to permit the negro and himself to slip through the small town clustered about the post without attracting undue attention. No doubt, the story of their escape had already reached there, embellished by telling, and serious trouble might result from discovery. Keith was surprised at the slight interest she exhibited in these arrangements, merely signifying her acquiescence by a word, but he charged it to physical weariness, and the reaction from her night of peril; yet he took pains to explain fully his plan, and to gain her consent.

This finally settled, they mounted again and rode on through the lanes traversing the sand dunes, keeping headed as straight as possible toward the river. The ford sought was some miles down stream, but with the horses' thirst mitigated, they made excellent progress, and arrived at all spot early in the evening. Not in all the day had they encountered a living object, or seen a moving thing, amid the surrounding desolation. Now, looking across to the north, a few gleaming lights told of Fort Larned perched upon the opposite bluffs.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Landlady of the Occidental. Keith had crossed at this point so frequently with cattle that, once having his bearings, the blackness of the night made very little difference. Nevertheless, in fear lest her pony might stumble over some irregularity, he gave his own rein to Ned, and went forward on foot, grasping firmly the tired animal's bit. It was a long stretch of sand and water extending from bank to bank, but the water was shallow, the only danger being that of straying off from the more solid bottom into quicksand. With a towering cottonwood as guide, oddly misshapen and standing out gauntly against the slightly lighter sky, the plainsman led on unhesitatingly, until they began to climb the rather sharp uplift of the north bank. Here there was a plain trail, pounded into smoothness by the hoofs of cavalry horses ridden down to water, and at the summit they emerged within fifty yards of the stables.

The few lights visible, some stationary, with others dancing about like will-o'-the-wisps, revealed imperfectly the contour of various buildings, but Keith turned sharply to the right, anxious to slip past without being challenged by a sentry. Beyond the brow of the bluff other lights now became visible, flickering here and there, marking where a straggling town had sprung up under the protection of the post—a town garish enough in the daylight, composed mostly of shacks and tents, but now with its deficiencies mercifully concealed by the enveloping darkness. The trail, easily followed, led directly along its single street, but Keith circled the outskirts through a wilderness of tin-cans and heaps of other debris, until he halted his charges beside the black shadow of the only two-story edifice in the place. This was the Occidental, the hospitality of which he had frequently tested.

A light streamed from out the front windows, but, uncertain who might be harbored within, Keith tapped gently at the back door. It was not opened immediately, and when it was finally shoved aside the merest crack, no glow of light revealed the darkened interior. The voice which spoke, however, was amply sufficient to identify its owner.

"Is that ye agin, Murphy, a playin' av yer dirty thricks?"

"No, Mrs. Murphy," he hastened to explain, "this is Keith—Jack Keith, of the 'Bar X'."

"The Lord deliver us!" was the instant exclamation, the door opening wide. "They do be after tellin' me to-night av the trouble ye was in over at Carson, an' Oi tought maybe ye moight turn up this way. It was turn up huntin' her. Oi'd loike ter take one slap at the spalpane." Fully convinced as to Mrs. Murphy's good-will, Keith slipped back into the darkness, and returned with the girl. Introductions were superfluous, as the mistress of the Occidental cared little regarding ceremony.

"An' is this you, my dear?" she burst out, endeavoring to curb her voice to secretive softness. "Shure, Jack Keith has told me all about it, an' it's safe it is yer goin' ter be here. Come on in; Oi'll give ye number forty-two, thet's next behint me own room, an' we'll go up the back stairs. Hilt the young loidy, Jack, fer shure ye know the way."

She disappeared, evidently with some hospitable purpose in view, and Keith, clasping the girl's hand, undertook the delicate task of safely escorting her through the dark kitchen, and up the dimly remembered stairs. Only a word or two passed between them, but as they neared the second story a light suddenly streamed out through the opened door of a room at their left. Mrs. Murphy greeted them at the landing, and for the first time saw the girl's weary white face, her eyes filled with appeal, and the warm Irish heart responded instantly.

"Ye poor little lamb; it's the bid ye want, an' a dhrap o' whiskey. Jack Keith, why didn't ye till me she was done up wid the hard ride? Here, honey, sit down in the rocker till Oi set ye a wee dhrink. It'll bring the a nate trick ye played on the loikes av 'em, Jack, but this is a dom poor place fer ye ter hide in. Bedad, there's a half-dozen in the parly now talkin' about it, wid a couple av officers from the fort. Is the nager wid ye?"

"Yes, but we have no intention of hiding here. I'd rather take my chance in the open. The fact is, Kate, we started off for the 'Bar X'."

"Av course, ye did; Oi was shure av it."

"But down on the Salt Fork we ran across a young girl whom Black Bart had invigled down that way on a lie. We had a bit of a fight, and got her away from him. This is what brought us back here—to put the girl where she will be safe out of his clutches."

The door was wide open now, and Mrs. Murphy outside, her interest at fever heat.

"Ye had a foight wid Black Bart! Oh, ye divil! An' ye licked the dirty spalpane, an' got away wid his gurl! Glory be! And would Oi take her? Well, Oi would. Niver doubt that, my boy. She may be the quane av Shaban, an' she may be a Digger Injun Squaw, but the loikes av him had better kipe away from Kate Murphy. It's glad Oi am ter do it! Bring her in. Oi don't want ter hear no more."

"Just a word, Kate; I don't know whether she has any money or not, but I'll pay her bill, as soon as it is safe for me to come back."

"Oh, the divil take her bill. She'll have the best in the house, anyhow, an' Oi'm only hopin' that fellow will roses back to the cheeks av ye." She was gone, bustling down the dark stairs, and the two were alone in the room, the girl looking up into his face, her head resting against the cushioned back of the chair. He thought he saw a glimmer of tears in the depths of her lash-shaded eyes, and her round white throat seemed to choke.

"You will be perfectly secure here," he said, soothingly, "and can remain as long as you please. Mrs. Murphy will guard you as though you were her own daughter. She is a bit rough, maybe, but a big-hearted woman, and despises Hawley. She nursed me once through a touch of typhoid—yes, by Jove," glancing about in sudden recognition, "and in this very room, too."

The girl's glance wandered over the plain, neat furnishings, and the rather pathetic attempts at decoration, yet with apparently no thought for them. "You—you have not told me where you were going."

He laughed, a little uneasily, as though he preferred to make light of the whole matter. "Really, I have hardly decided, the world is so wide, and I had no reason to suppose you interested."

"But I am interested," resenting his tone of assumed indifference. "I would not want to feel that our acquaintance was to wholly end now."

"Do you really mean that?" "Why should I not? You have been a real friend to me; I shall remember you always with a gratitude beyond words. I want you to know this, and that—that I shall ever wish to retain that friendship."

Keith struggled with himself, doubtful of what he had best say, swayed by unfamiliar emotions. "You may be sure I shall never forget," he blurted forth, desperately, "and, if you really wish it, I'll certainly see you again."

"I do," earnestly. "Then, I'll surely find a way. I don't know now which direction we will ride, but I'm not going very far until I clear up that murder out yonder on the trail; that is my particular job just now."

Before she could answer, Mrs. Murphy re-entered and forced her to drink the concoction prepared, the girl accepting with smiling protest. The landlady, empty glass in hand, swept her eyes about the room.

"Bedad, but the place looks better than Iver Oi'd belaved, wid the gurl! Oi've got tindlin' to it. She's that lazy she goes ter slape swappin' the shure. Jack, would ye moind hilpin' me move the bid; shure, it's rale mahogany, an' so heavy it breaks me back intirely to push it 'round."

He took hold willingly enough, and the two together ran the heavy contrivance across the room to the position selected. Once a leg caught in the rag carpet, and Keith lifted it out, bending low to get a firmer grip. Then he held out his hand to the girl.

"It is not going to be good-bye then, Miss Hope; I'll find you."

She smiled up into his eyes, much of the weariness gone from her face. "I am going to believe that," she answered, gladly, "because I want to."

Mrs. Murphy lingered until his steps sounded on the stairs, as he slowly felt his way down through the darkness.

"He do be a moighty foine bye, Jack Keith," she said, apparently addressing the side wall. "Oi wish Oi'd a knowed him whin Oi was a gurl; shure, it's not Murphy me noime'd be now, Oi'm 'inkin'."

Left alone, the girl bowed her head on her hands, a hot tear stealing down through her fingers. As she glanced up again, something that glittered on the floor beside the bed caught her eyes. She stopped and picked it up, holding the trinket to the light, staring at it as though fascinated. It was the locket Keith had taken from the neck of the dead man at Cimmaron Crossing. Her nerveless fingers pressed the spring, and the painted face within looked up into her own, and still clasping it within her hand, she sank upon her knees, burying her face on the bed.

"Where did he get that?" her lips kept repeating. "Where did he ever get that?"

She Probably Was Worth It. "I proposed last night and today I have to see the girl's father."

"A painful ordeal."

"Yes; I feel morally certain that he is going to borrow at least $50."

SECTION HAND DISCOVERS ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP TAFT'S TRAIN.

FIRES SHOTS AT TWO MEN

Thirty-Six Explosives Found Under Southern Pacific Railroad Bridge Shortly Before President's Special Is Due.

Los Angeles, Cal.—A report received here by officials of the Southern Pacific Railway company from C. B. Brown, section foreman for the road at Naples, Cal., gave details of the discovery of 36 sticks of dynamite under the Caltran viaduct, 20 miles north of Santa Barbara, several hours before President Taft's special train passed over the bridge en route to this city.

The dynamite was found after the watchman engaged in a revolver battle with two men, who escaped.

The dynamite was discovered at two o'clock in the morning. The president's train passed over the bridge at 5:51. The night watchman saw two men on the bridge shortly before two o'clock. They were at the opposite end of the 1,000-foot span and ran when ordered to halt. The watchman hurried across the bridge, firing several shots, which were returned.

After the pair had escaped in the darkness the watchman returned to the bridge and began an investigation. Near the center of the span, lodged on one of the supports of the viaduct, he found the 36 sticks of dynamite with a ten-foot fuse attached to one of the sticks. He left the find untouched, going immediately to Santa Barbara and notifying the officials.

Sheriff Wines of Santa Barbara county went at once to the bridge with several deputies and removed the dynamite. A general search is being made for the men.

ATHLETICS BEAT GIANTS 3-1

Philadelphia Americans Defeat New York Nationals in Second Game of World Series.

Philadelphia.—The Athletics, clawing and tearing their way through New York's defense, walloped the Giants 3 to 1 here in the second game for the world's championship.

This evened up the series to date, giving Philadelphia a far better chance on the series. Rube Marquard, hero of the National league season, was knocked from the box, and Crandall was substituted for him. Plank pitched throughout for the victors, and showed excellent speed and skill.

Although the crowd was much smaller than witnessed the first game at New York, the excitement was much greater. The battle was less of a pitcher's affair, the hitting being more open. Marquard seemed to lack the control which characterized him during the National league season, the climax coming in the sixth inning, when Baker batted a home run with Collins already on base. Marquard gave Baker a wide curve, which Baker stepped into.

Philadelphia rooters had the first chance to cheer, a run coming their way in the first inning. Lord singled and Oldring sacrificed. Then Marquard shot a wild one which went to the stands, Lord scoring with ease.

The Giants tied it up in the second. Herzog doubled and then Meyers singled, following Fletcher's infield out. This was enough to score Herzog.

Nothing much more happened until the sixth, when the Athletics took Marquard's measure. With two down, Collins doubled and Baker let loose a homer that sent Philadelphia stock sky high. Two runs to the good looked as good as a victory.

As it resulted, the two runs were as big as a thousand, Plank holding the enemy helpless for the remainder of the game.

Strengthen of the New-Born

Muscles of the Forearm Especially Seem to Be Powerful, Says a London Periodical.

The myth of the infant Hercules, who strangled two serpents in his cradle, may not have been a myth at all, but a fact, says the London Telegraph. Modern science has proved that it is quite a possible feat. The new-born babe is relatively much stronger than a full-grown man, according to the result of medical tests.

"The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly vigorous. A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick, or to the finger of a person, can hold itself in the air for ten seconds, and, in the case of particularly strong infants, for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 98 per cent. of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang on for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptional young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and 38 seconds by his right hand. After that he still hung on with his left for 16 seconds longer." It is not stated how many babies were put through these horizontal bar gymnastics at the early age of from one hour to a fortnight.

TYPES OF TOMATOES DEMANDED BY THE MARKETS IN THE LARGE CITIES

Types of Tomatoes.

By JOHN W. LLOYD,
University of Illinois.

Formerly only two brands of tomatoes were recognized on the Chicago market—the market which determines the classifications of most Illinois tomatoes insofar as they are classified at all. These were known as "Acme" and "Trophy." All large, smooth, purple or pink tomatoes were classed as Acme, while all the bright red or scarlet sorts were classed as Trophy. Most of the bright red tomatoes were more or less rough and wrinkled, so that the bright red color and the roughness of fruit were always associated in the mind of the produce buyer. Thus a strong prejudice against bright red tomatoes was early developed on the Chicago market, and still persists, theoretically, at least, in spite of the fact that many extremely smooth varieties of bright red color have been developed. Likewise purple color and smoothness of fruit have long been associated in the mind of the Chicago marketman, since the original Acme tomato was of that color and character.

However, the recent introduction of certain extra early, rough-fruited varieties of purple color has somewhat confused the original classification, for some shippers are inclined to brand these rough tomatoes as "Acme" on account of their color. The produce dealers, however, do not recognize this classification, and are beginning to quote these rough, purple sorts by their variety names. In like manner, the shipment of large, smooth, bright red tomatoes is of sufficient extent to warrant a separation of these tomatoes from the old Trophy class in the market quotations, and certain leading varieties of this character are now sometimes quoted under their variety names. Large, rough-fruited tomatoes of the Ponderosa type are not recognized on the general market, though they may be salable in some local markets.

The Chicago market declares decidedly in favor of tomatoes of the Acme type. The same is true of Peoria, Bloomington and Galesburg. Quincy, Springfield and Decatur do not seem to be so particular as to the color of the tomato so long as the fruit is smooth.

Some of the varieties of tomatoes extensively grown in southern Illinois which are everywhere recognized as belonging to the Acme type are the Imperial, Dwarf Champion and Magnus. The leading variety of the Trophy type is the Earliana, and this has become so predominating a variety of that type that it is often quoted under its own name. The leading rough-fruited varieties with the Acme color are the Earliest Pink and June Pink. Some of the best varieties of smooth, bright red tomatoes are Chalk's Early Jewel, Stone and Matchless.

Tomatoes of the Trophy type, especially the Earliana, are grown quite extensively on account of their extreme earliness. Earliest Pink and June Pink are being grown to some extent for the same reason. These varieties usually bring good prices if there are no other tomatoes on the market, but as soon as the market is supplied with smooth varieties, there is little demand for these rough sorts. Even at their best, these varieties produce a high percentage of culls, and should, in most cases, be discarded by growers who desire to produce tomatoes acceptable to the trade. With well-grown plants of a slightly later variety but which produces large, smooth fruits, the careful grower can practically control the early tomato market of his locality. For shipment to the city markets, also, it is unwise to depend upon rough-fruited sorts, for even if early, they usually must compete against smooth later sorts from more southern localities.

Work of the Soil Survey Men.

Du Page, Edward and Jersey counties have been added to the list of the surveyed portion of our state as a result of the summer's work of our soil survey men. Mason, Bureau, Kane and Perry are now being worked upon. With the exception of a portion of Massac county, 34 of the 110 counties in our state have been surveyed. Every farmer should take interest in this work and apply for the maps as fast as they become available, because this is indeed an invaluable work.

Many Silos Being Constructed.

No doubt there will be many autumn silos before many silos are constructed as are being constructed this fall. This fact largely results because of the great hay shortage in our country. Circumstances demand that the farmer utilize all forage which is produced upon the farm. Thus the filling of silos means that stock must subsist on corn stover during the winter months.

SOIL TREATMENT ON FARM IN CORN BELT

By FRANK L. MANN, Member of State Advisory Committee on Soil
Investigations.

Under the permanent scheme of agriculture phosphorus is the only element of plant food that, as yet, must be purchased to be added. To supply phosphorus it was bought in raw rock phosphate, which was applied at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre, once in four years, the application being made to the clover field in the fall before it was plowed for corn the following year. At this rate the cost was approximately four dollars for each treatment, or an annual cost of one dollar per acre. Check strips three rods wide were left in each field without treatment with phosphate, but in every other respect they have been managed identically the same. These check strips were left in order to get a measure on the value of the treatment.

The data given as yields on a two-year rotation of corn and oats are taken from nearby fields, and are only approximate, though they compare favorably with general averages.

The following figures are the average fields per acre for five years, from comparative data taken from large fields. It should be remembered that the rotation including clover has been run so long that the clover alone (on the check strips) is losing to some extent its efficiency for increasing yields.

Two Year Rotation Corn and Oats	Four Year Rotation Corn, Oats and Clover	Same Rotation and Phosphate Once in 4 Years
Corn 34 bus. .... 64 bus.	70 bus.	70 bus.
Oats 32 bus. .... 47 bus.	70 bus.	70 bus.
Clover ..... 1 1/2 tons	2 1/2 tons	2 1/2 tons

One important fact not shown in these figures is that the effect of this treatment is cumulative, as the difference in yields has a strong tendency to increase year after year.

Another important fact not shown fully is the benefit of the treatment in getting a stand of clover on certain parts of the fields. Some portions of the check strips show, but little if any clover the second year after seeding, while on comparable ground across the treated line there is a good stand. Wishing to know if a maximum application of phosphate would be profitable; that is, an application large enough to bring the total phosphorus content up to the standard of 2,000 pounds per acre, average portions of the main fields were selected, to which an application of four tons of phosphate per acre was made. Also, some smaller fields have been given this full treatment, except for the check strip. The differences in yields for the past two years indicate a good percent of profit on the investment for this heavy treatment, as shown by the following:

Four Year Rotation Corn and Oats	Four Year Rotation Corn, Oats and Clover	Same Rotation and Phosphate Once in 4 Years	Same Rotation and 4 Tons Phosphate
Corn 25 bus. .... 67 bus.	84 bus.	82 bus.	82 bus.
Oats 31 bus. .... 55 bus.	78 bus.	78 bus.	78 bus.

*Corn figures are from pasture sod instead of clover.

Another advantage of the treatment is its effect on the maturity and quality of the crops. In view of the widespread and annually increasing complaint from the commercial interests of the poor quality of grain, this problem of maturity is an important one. There is a difference between mature grain and grain that merely stops growth at the proper season and then dries out. Maturity is a completion of the process of growth, and not merely a cessation of growth, and the completed growth or full development cannot take place without there is sufficient plant food. When crops do not fully mature the grain will be light and chaffy, or it may contain much moisture that would have been utilized if properly fed so as to mature. Some comparisons have been made between treated and untreated parts of fields as to maturity of the crops. In the case of corn, maturity has varied from 35 per cent. to 84 per cent., respectively, for the untreated and treated. No doubt some of this difficulty can be remedied by growing earlier maturing varieties, but with these the fact of immaturity still remains to some extent, for even the early varieties of popcorn with its small ears is likely to contain many immature ears. Plants will not properly mature when insufficiently fed any more than will animals when not properly nourished.

QUEER CHINESE BUG

Tenodera Sinensis Has Appeared in This Country.

Curiosity From the Orient Said to Have Been Imported by Green-house Owners to Destroy Insects.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Tenodera Sinensis or Chinese Mantle is in our midst nowadays and the insect experts at the Academy of Natural Sciences on Logan Square have been kept busy recently answering questions as to what the queer-looking insects are and where they come from. Philadelphia is about the only American city that is the home of the Chinese Mantle. About 10 years ago a number of the insects were brought to this city from China on some plants that had been imported by the Meehan Nurseries, in Germantown. Gradually the mantle spread through Germantown, and are now rather abundant north of Market street. That they will in time spread throughout the city and suburbs, and, perhaps, in time throughout the country, seems probable.

The mantle, according to Dr. Henry Skinner, of the Academy of Natural Sciences, has no sting, but has a rather large mouth and will bite if annoyed. Several weeks ago a woman living in Germantown became terrified when one of the insects flew against her arm. She declared that the bug stung her and that her arm was badly swollen for several days.

Not a day has passed that several persons with the insects in bottles have not come to the Academy to have their pets examined. The mantle lives on smaller insects, such as flies, mosquitoes and gnats. According to Dr. Skinner, the bug is really valuable. The eggs of the mantle are laid in autumn and hatch in spring. About the last of August the mantle becomes full grown and lives until cold weather. In size the bugs range from two to six inches long. They are very peculiar in appearance and are sometimes called Praying Mantle, Soothsayers and the Prophet Bugs.

It is said the Chinese tell their fortunes from the actions of the insects. The name Praying Mantle comes from the fact that the insects hold their two front legs, which are very short, in a praying position, and often work them rapidly back and forth. The most peculiar parts of the bug are its eyes and long neck. The eyes are like miniature shoe buttons on the outside of the insect's head, and in proportion to its size are very large. The neck shoots out from the body and forms about one-third the length of the bug, ranging from one to two inches. The mantle can fly, has green wings, a brown glossy back and long feelers protruding from its head. All together it is not a friendly looking beast. Recently, it is said, the owners of greenhouses in this country have imported the insects to use in destroying insects in their greenhouses.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public."

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baume, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911. "Your husband says he leads a dog's life," said one woman. "Yes, it's very similar," answered the other. "He comes in with muddy feet, makes himself comfortable by the fire and waits to be fed."—Everybody's Magazine.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impair digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so gives health and strength to the whole body.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema and at sixteen months of age his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy." Mrs. Inez Lewis, Baring, Maine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood diseases and builds up the system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

Some Oil Spouter.

The mammoth gusher of the Pearson oil interests in the Potrero de Liano field, state of Vera Cruz, Mex., was recently allowed to perform for 20 minutes for officials of the Texas company and the Gulf Mining Refining company, according to the Mining and Scientific Press. The gate valve was opened for the first time since the well was brought under control, and a column of oil shot into the air to a height of 400 feet. The flow was estimated at 100,000 barrels daily. With the possible exception of the Dos Bocas gusher, which burned out, the Potrero is the greatest in the history of the oil industry.

Good Prison Fare.

If what is said of French prisons be correct the wonder is that there are any people left outside. An official return of the necessities and luxuries supplied recently to the prison department shows that there is no stint. Among the edibles supplied are 84,000 tablets of chocolate, 17,000 kilogrammes of butter, 3,000 kilogrammes of coffee, 85,000 eggs, new laid, of course; 50,000 kilogrammes of Bologna sausage, 2,000 cheeses, 200 kilogrammes of caramels, and ten times that weight of other sweets. A kilogramme is nearly 2½ pounds.

Force of Horse's Kick.

The remarkable force of a horse's kick was demonstrated the other day at a training establishment at Kingsclere, near Southampton. The shoe of a thoroughbred flew off and was hurled over the top of the opposite stable, some distance away, at a height of nearly thirty feet, and landed on the glass roof of a greenhouse beyond.

FEMALE DIVERS OF JAPAN

Women Who Begin at 13 to Search for Pearls in the Coast Waters.

The pearl divers of Japan are women. Along the coast of the Bay of Ago and the Bay of Kokasho the thirteen and fourteen-year-old girls, after they have finished their primary school work, go to sea and learn to dive.

They are in the water and learn to swim almost from babyhood and spend most of their time in the water except in the coldest season, from the end of December to the beginning of February. Even during the most inclement of seasons they sometimes dive to pearls.

They wear a special dress, white underwears and the hair twisted up into a hard knot. The eyes are protected by glasses to prevent the entrance of water. Tubs are suspended from the waist. A boat in command of a man is assigned to every five or ten women divers to carry them to and from the fishing grounds.

When the divers arrive on the grounds they leap into the water at once and begin to gather oysters at the bottom. The oysters are dropped into tubs suspended from their waists. When the vessels are filled the divers are raised to the surface and jump into the boats. They dive to a depth of from five to thirty fathoms without any special apparatus and retain their breath from one to three minutes.

Their ages vary from thirteen to forty years and between twenty-five and thirty-five they are at their prime.—Oriental Review

Peculiar Insect.

There is a peculiar insect, found in the Malay peninsula and called the "lantern fly," which is remarkable for its wings. It was only after several specimens had been captured by European naturalists and brought west for careful examination that it was discovered that a curious projection on the front of the insect's head, a kind of nose with a crease in it, was the leaping organ. When bent back under the abdomen and suddenly released it sends the little creature flying.—Harper's Weekly.

Old-Time Gardens.

In the dark ages a garden was only a patch of "simples" tended by a patient laborious monk. But the Italian garden of the day of Lorenzo de Medici had become all that the garden wisdom, skill and expenditure could make. A formal garden of the Villa Falconieri, more than five centuries old, is still considered the most beautiful and dignified ornamental garden in the world, a painter's and a poet's dream of cool, clear pools and stately cypresses. In Japan they go so far as to make every look one gets over walls or through windows a perfect picture.
